A player/team issued a time penalty must play one man short for the allotted time giving the opposing team a power play. The player serving the time penalty may re-enter the game after the allotted time expires or when a goal is scored by the opposing team.

A blue card for misconduct requires the player to sit out the allotted time but the team does not have to play short. The player may not re-enter his players' box until a guaranteed substitution takes place.

Guaranteed substitutions can happen when:

- A goal has been scored
- A time penalty has been awarded
- An injury timeout has been called
- At halftime

If play is inadvertently restarted with too many players on the field, after any guaranteed substitution occasion, no time penalty shall be assessed.

If a team falls below the minimum number of players as a result of a time penalty, the game is a forfeit.

Any time penalty remaining at the end of a half will be carried over to the next half.

  15. Misconduct: An act deemed by the referee to be unsporting, reckless, violent, or flagrantly in the violation of the laws and spirit of the game, and punishable by a blue or red card.
  16. Shootouts: Shootouts are awarded for the last defender purposely fouling an attacker to prevent a goal or for the accumulation of six team fouls. The shootout is taken from the red dot where the attacker is allowed to dribble forward and shoot on the goal. The goalie must have at least one foot on the goal line until the whistle blows. All other players must line up at midfield. Once the whistle blows the ball is in play and all players can move.
  17. Red Line Violation: A red line violation occurs when the ball crosses both red lines in the air without being touched by a player, the wall, the net, or the referee. Change of possession and a direct kick from the line first crossed restarts play.
